CHARLES SQUARE FARMERS MARKET OPEN FOR BUSINESS

CAMBRIDGE, MA (June 8, 2010) – Summer in Harvard Square has arrived with the opening of the Charles Square Farmers Market on Sunday, May 23. Sweet, locally-grown watermelon, freshly baked blackberry pie, and homemade strawberry jam at the Charles Square Farmers Market are a few of the nostalgic summer favorites available to shoppers this month. Photos from the Opening Day at the Charles Square Farmers Market showcase some of the local offerings.

Located in The Charles Hotel's lower courtyard at One Bennett Street, Harvard Square, Cambridge, the Charles Square Farmers Market debuted Sunday, May 23rd. The market will operate every Sunday from 10:00 a.m. – 3:00 p.m. and every Friday (starting June 11th), from 12:00 p.m. – 6:00 p.m.

Farmers from Massachusetts and New Hampshire will gather in the summer sun – or rain – to sell everything from artesian cheeses to homemade candies. Visit the stands of Grateful Farm - organic produce and herbs; Hi-Rise Bread - bread, pastries and jam; Kimball Fruit Farm - fruit, vegetables, pies and heirloom tomatoes; Stillman Farms - conscientiously raised and grass fed meats and poultry; and more each week for the best selection of local treats.
